

“The Future of Further Education”

Friday 22 March 2013

Speaker: Geoff Petty

Author of 'Teaching Today' the UK's best selling teacher training text, he has a reputation for explaining learning and teaching issues in a down to earth, but lively and inspiring way. He has worked as a consultant with over 200 Colleges, and with most national educational agencies: Department for Children, Schools and Families, LSDA, LSC, FENTO and the AoC. He speaks on learning and teaching issues at conferences all over the country, and his work is used at a national level in Britain, Romania and Lithuania. He is a Patron of the Institute for Learning.

He has worked as a A physics teacher, a teacher trainer, and as a Learning Development Manager. He has written 'How to be Better at Creativity' (Kogan Page), and his work has been translated into eight languages.

His website, www.geoffpetty.com, has lots of downloads on it, and gets visited about 2000 times a week. His new book, 'Evidence Based Teaching' is written for practising teachers and came out in 2006 to critical acclaim from academia and from practising teachers it is now in its second edition.
